SHIELDS SUGGESTS NEW FINANCE PLAN

President of Chamber of Commerce Calls Attention of Directors to Important Matter.

$4,000 NEEDED ANNUALLY

Recommendation Includes Employment of Secretary Trained in Commercial Organization Work.

In a letter which he has sent to each of the directors of the chamber of commerce, John A. Shields, president, recommends that the organization be placed on a new financial basis and suggests the employment of a full time secretary who is trained in commercial organization work. The letter embodies suggestions which have been made from time to time during the last few years and it is expected that definite action will be taken in the near future. Mr. Shields makes it clear in his communication that he proposes these matters that they may be considered thoroughly by the directors before any recommendations are formally presented. The members and citizens are also requested to give the matter their earnest consideration and careful thought and to make such suggestions as they may desire.

It is explained that the chamber of commerce desires to adopt a program of activity that will produce the greatest benefits for the city and the community. In order that this be done more money than is paid in as dues is needed. Several plans for raising the necessary funds have been proposed and considered at different times. In his letter to the directors of the organization Mr. Shields suggests that six classes of contributing members be formed, the first to pay $200 annually and the others ranging as low as $6 each year. In this way $4,000 could be secured.

Mr. Shields is desirous of having those interested in the chamber of commerce discuss the plan proposed. In reference to the employment of a trained secretary Mr. Shields said:

"I think we will have to pay $2,500 a year or thereabouts for the right man. It ought to be possible to find a suitable man of experience through the state or United States chamber of commerce, one who is

INJURY SUSTAINED IN FALL MAY PROVE FATAL

Twenty Months' Old Son of Joe Schrenk in Critical Condition at Home Southeast of City.

George, twenty-months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Schrenk who reside two miles southeast of the city, is in a critical condition suffering with meningitis brought on by an injury received last Monday when the child fell on a paring knife. The child was playing with the knife when it fell holding it in such position as to cause the blade to penetrate the head just over the left eyeball. Reports from the home this afternoon are to the effect that the child is in a critical condition and is not expected to live.

INJURED IN FALL

Mrs. James McPike Sustains Painful Injuries.

Mrs. James McPike, who has been making her home for the last five or six weeks with her son, G. W. McPike on North Ewing street, fell in the house Thursday afternoon, fracturing her collar bone. She received other painful bruises and it is feared she is hurt internally. Mrs. McPike is eighty-four years old and received her injuries in walking across the room when she made a misstep and fell. Her son, who is a traveling salesman, was located at Terre Haute and arrived home Thursday night.

JAIL DELIVERY AT BEDFORD FOILED

Men Who Worked Box Trick on Oolitic Merchant Saw Bars of Cell in Effort to Escape.

HIDDEN TOOLS DISCOVERED

Lawrence County Authorities Believe Men Are Members of Large Gang—All Foreigners.

A. J. Lee, sheriff of Lawrence county, prevented the escape of Mack Millich, Mike Davich and Joseph Rukavince, arrested at Oolitic Monday after they had successfully worked the box trick on Frank Dawson, a merchant there, upon discovery that they had sawed two bars in their cell at the Bedford jail. The sheriff also found hidden tools.

An investigation disclosed the fact that there had been some sawing done on the bars of the jail on the lower floor where Frank Henderson colored and Vernie Worman, white, were confined. The sawing was done in such a manner that it was necessary to search on hands and knees and to use a flash light to find evidence of the work.

The men were taken from that part of the jail and placed in a place of security. Both men were put through a series of questioning this afternoon, but nothing of any consequence developed.

It seems certain that help from outside was secured by tossing a string through the window and drawing the tools inside. A string wound about a match was found on Hender-

DIVORCE IS GRANTED TO FORMER SOLDIER

Plaintiff Says Wife Married Him So She Could Claim Insurance in Case of His Death.

A divorce was granted in circuit court this morning to Jesse Brewer, Grassy Fork township, from Thresa Brewer. The plaintiff is a former service man. The marriage took place just before he entered the service, it was stated, and the couple have never lived together. The girl is a resident of Lawrence county. Brewer told the court that his wife had admitted to him that she consented to their marriage so that she might receive his insurance in case he was killed. No objection was filed to the granting of the divorce.

BALTIMORE & OHIO SAFETY MEETING THIS AFTERNOON

Thos. J. Bordrick, Chief Safety Director Addresses Railroad Men at Assembly Room.

Thos. J. Bordrick, chief safety director of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad addressed a safety meeting held at the assembly room in the division office in this city this afternoon. About thirty railroad employes from points over the Indiana division were in attendance at the meeting.

Besides the address by Mr. Bordrick, short talks were made by other local railroad officials.

FOUR CARS DERAILED.

Traffic Held Up For Short Time at Hobble Street Station.

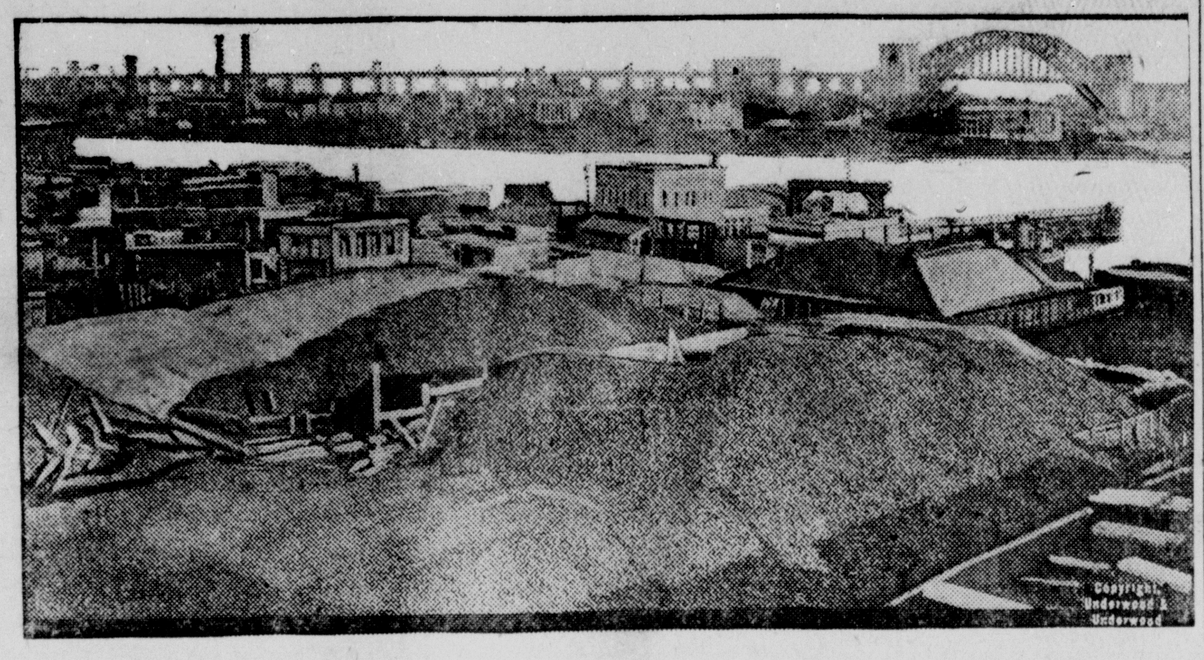

Four freight cars on a Baltimore & Ohio train were derailed at the Hobble street station at Cincinnati early this morning. The cars were set back on the track with the assistance of a switch engine. The traffic was held up fofr a short time while the wreck was being cleared away. The train was in charge of Conductor George Childers and Engineer Ira Rucker.

INDUSTRIAL PLANTS PILE UP RESERVE COAL

When the coal miners' strike became a certainty, industrial plants all over the country gathered such reserves of the fuel as they could obtain. The photograph, taken in New York city, shows an example of these reserve coal piles.

RABBITS ARE KEPT ON THE JUMP NOW

Many Local Hunters Invading The Fields and Report That Many Bunnies are Seen.

QUAIL NOT SO PLENTIFUL

Several Seymour Men Have Returned After Day's Hunt With as Many as Fifty Rabbits.

Many local men are taking advantage of the open hunting season and hundreds of rabbits and quite a few quail have been bagged since November 10 when the state law protecting birds became inoperative until December 20. Rabbits are said to be more numerous in some parts of the country than for many years. Alfred Pfaffenberger of Indianapolis, who is visiting here, and Perry White, a local barber, were hunting Thursday and report that they killed more than fifty rabbits and a number of quail. Other local men who take pleasure in hunting have also reported heavy rabbit slaughters, which indicate that the reports that bunnies are very plentiful are true, at least so far as good marksmen are concerned.

While there are quite a few quail they are not nearly as numerous as some other kinds of game. The birds also have the protection of the majority of farmers who strictly forbid the hunting of quail on their farms. The protection given birds during the last few years has resulted in increasing numbers, according to hunters. Any man who holds a hunting Daughter Hears Announcement of Death as It Was Megaphoned to Crowd and Faints.

M. F. Bottorff, of this city, has received the details of the death of his son, S. O. Bottorff, of El Paso, Tex., who was killed in a recent automobile race near Tucson. An account of the accident is printed in an El Paso newspaper as follows:

Upon the altar of speed was sacrificed two more victims Monday morning when S. O. Bottorff, president of the West-Texas Motor company, driver of entry 32 in the El Paso-Phoenix road race, and his mechanician, Floyd Brown, were instantly killed.

Bottorff's car struck a rut at a sharp turn one and one-half miles west of Vail, Ariz., turned over four times, and stopped 40 feet down the hill from the turn.

Both men were instantly killed. The first somersault of the big racer crushed them. Their heads were severed from their bodies.

I A. Gamatis, road official at the Vail control, was an eye witness of the accident.

"The car appeared to be hurtling along at not less than 90 miles an hour," he said.

"At the turn the machine seemed to jump from the road. It righted

That Seymour will not have a chautauqua in 1920 was considered almost a certainty today. The matter of holding an assembly here next summer was discussed at a meeting of the guarantors at the city building last night and while only a few were in attendance all of them expressed the belief that the chautauqua would not be a success in 1920. WAR ON RADICALS IN THE NORTHWEST

Peace Officers Continue Raiding I. W. W. Headquarters Throughout Washington.

MANY CITIZENS ON GUARD

Snipers Fire on Man Near Centralia. and American Flag in Street is Torn by Bullets.

By United Press

Seattle, Wash., November 14—While peace officers continued raiding I. W. W. headquarters and places frequented by "reds" today in various northwest cities, the situation continued tense.

When S. Godfrey, a mill hand, refused to obey an order to halt as he approached the county jail, he was shot by a guard. He was not severely wounded. The jail had been under heavy guard following reports that attempts would be made by I. W. W.'s to storm the jail and rescue their comrades. Snipers fired on a man near Centralia and an American flag flying in the heart of the city was torn by a bullet.

Censorship was removed today from the Union Record, labor paper, that was raided last night and it re-

BOMBING PLANE STARTS ON LONG NON-STOP TRIP

Purpose of Flight is to Show Feasibility of Airplanes as Freight Carriers.

By United Press

Mitchel Field, Mineola, N. Y., Nov. 14—A Handley-Page bombing plane attempting a non-stop flight to Chicago, took off here at 7 o'clock this morning.

The plane, which flew here from Parrsboro, N. S. several weeks ago, carried Rear Admiral Kerr, of the British navy, Major Brackley, Colonel Miller, commandant of the field, a representative of an express company and four mechanics. Its cargo consisted of 3,600 pounds of express matter. The flight was undertaken to demonstrate the feasibility of airplanes as freight carriers.

The start was to have been made at 3:30 but was delayed by the sudden freezing temperature, which chilled the engines. The wind was blowing forty miles an hour when the machine got away.

OPERATORS AND MINERS CONFER

Government Acting as Mediator in Effort to Adjust Wage and Working Conditions Dispute.

FULL DEMANDS ARE URGED

Operators Insist Upon "Washington Wage Agreement" Being Enforced.

By United Press

Washington, Nov. 14—With the government acting as mediator, mine operators and representatives of the United Mine Workers came together here today in an effort to settle the dispute over wages and hours which caused the recent coal strike.

As the delegates assembled for this "peace conference" it appeared there would be a deadlock from the very outset.

The union representatives were prepared to enter the confernce at 2:30 this afternoon, determined to hold out for an uncompromising victory. Less than complete triumph, they feared it will give the extreme radical element control of the miners—the men will lose faith in their conservative leaders. Acting President Lewis was expected to insist on full compliance with the men's demands for a thirty hour week and wage increases ranging up to sixty per cent.

Operators were solidly in favor of refusing to surrender anything to the workers, according to early indications. They stood pat on the "Washington wage agreement," contending it runs till the end of the

PRESIDENT MAY REJECT REVISED TREATY OF PEACE

Wilson Known to Take Exceptions to Modification of Article 10 by Senate.

By United Press

Washington, November 14—Rejection of the peace treaty by the senate or by President Wilson himself is assured if the resolution of ratification goes to a vote containing the reservation to Article 10 already adopted by the senate sitting in committee of the whole. This was the opinion in administration quarters here today based on the President's own words frequently reiterated during his recent tour of the United States.

Whether the president then will carry out his threat to send leading treaty opponents including Senator Lodge to Wiemar to negotiate a new treaty remains to be seen. Wilson has served notice that he would consider adoption of the reservation to article 10 as rejection of the whole treaty. There is nothing to indicate that he has changed this attitude.

RACE RIOTS FOLLOW MURDER OF PATROLMAN

Police at Wilmington, Del., Take Precautions to Prevent Renewal of Trouble.

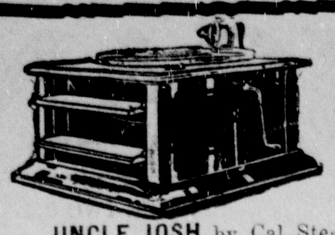

By United Press

Wilmington, Del., November 14.—Police patrols took precautions today to prevent renewals of race rioting between whites and negroes in which one negro was shot and several negro homes partly wrecked. The trouble grew out of the murder of a patrolman by two negroes. Aroused by the removal of the two negroes to Philadelphia for safe keeping, crowds of whites collected on the streets last night. Fighting started when a negro opened fire on a group of white men. The whites returned the fire, wounding one negro. The mob then stormed the negro quarters, hurling bricks through the windows of homes. Police reserves finally restored order. A guard armed with riot guns was placed over the jail.

NITTI EXPECTED TO WIN IN ELECTION IN ITALY

Balloting Done Under Law That Eliminates Political Wire Pulling.

By United Press

Rome, Nov. 14—While Premier Nitti continues to be subjected to some of the most virulent personal attacks in Italian political history, it is confidently predicted by his supporters that the government will secure a substantial majority at the general elections held tomorrow all over Italy.

The cynics point out Nitti is in power, and that no Italian government in power while an election was held has been defeated at the polls since 1848. If he is defeated, they say, it will be his own fault for tinkering with the election law.

For Italy will vote under Nitti's new election law, which is aimed at reducing the power of the political wirepullers and giving the people an extended and more equal franchise. Although woman suffrage was adopted by the last chamber, women will not vote this time as the new law specifically postpones their participation in elections until the next dissolution of parliament, but the electorate will be considerably enlarged, for in addition to granting the vote to all Italians over 21 years of age (except soldiers actually under arms) there is a special provision extending the franchise on this occasion to all citizens who have performed service in the army or navy, regardless of the age limit

There are still 508 deputies to be elected, as the redeemed provinces are not entitled to representation until the ratification of the treaties with Germany and Austria permits the formal decree of annexation. Later there may be a special election for their benefit after their representation strength has been determined. The constituencies have been re-arranged and enlarged. Instead of 135 electoral districts, as provided for by the law of 1882, there will be fifty-four—for the same number (508) of deputies. Of these Milan is the largest, returning 20 deputies. Turin and the Emilia district have 19 each; Genoa and Naples 17; Rome (which only had five under the old daw) 15; Florence 14; Alessandria and Caserta 13; Cuneo (Giolitti's constituence) Navara, Udine, Bari and Palermo, 12 apiece; Como and Campobasso, 11; and Siena, Perugia, Salerno, Lecce, Potenza (Nitti's constituency) and Catania 10 each. The smallest districts are Mantua, Cremona, Teramo, Caltanisetta, Trapani, and Sassari in Sardinia, with five members each.

One man, one vote, is the rule in Italy, and no candidate may stand for two constituencies—if elected in two he must decide for which he desires to sit, within eight days of the Chamber declaring his election valid. The minimum age for a deputy is 30, although Signor Salandra introduced a resolution which the last Chamber was unable to deal with before the dissolution, making the limit 25.

Political experts declare that the principal ones to benefit from the new system will be the extreme parties, the catholics or clericals in the agricultural south, and the socialists in the industrial north, both of which are highly organized. The old liberals are expected to lose ground, while the young nationalist of imperialist party which had only three or four deputies in the old chamber will doubtless increase its representation.

Fiume continues to bee almost the main battleground.

FRANKLIN AND WABASH WILL CLASH SATURDAY

Contest to Determine Rival Claims for State Football Champion.

By United Press

Indianapolis, November 14—Rival claims for the football championship o fthe Indiana Collegiate Athletic Association will be settled at Washington Park, Indianapolis, November 15, when Wabash College and Franklin College meet on the gridiron in a game that has been specially arranged in order to decide the dispute.

Soon after Franklin, which has an unusually strong team of seasoned veterans, went to Lafayette and forced Purdue to accept a 14 to 14 tie, football fans of the state began clamoring for a contest that would pit the Baptists against the Little Giants. When Franklin held DePauw to a 7 to 0 victory and at many times threatened the Old Gold with defeat the athletic managements of the two colleges agreed that Wabash and Franklin should meet in order to eliminate any dispute concerning the I. C. A. L. title. On account of the widespread interest, it was decided to hold the game in Indianapolis.

Pointing to the 0 to 0 game which Wabash and DePauw played in Indianapolis last week, Franklin is confident of giving the Scarlet warriors a decisive defeat. Wabash, however, is of the opinion that the Little Giants will make a score that will leave no argument about the I. C. A. L. championship.

Another indication of the evenly matched strength of the two rivals is the way Rose Poly fared at their hands. Franklin marched across the Engineers' goal line for a 14 to 7 win, while Wabash in the last four minutes of the game, scored 10 points for a victory, Rose not crossing the Scarlet goal line. Regardless of all dope, however, it will be a battle royal when Neal, Stasand, Huffine, Nabor and Burns for Wabash meet on the same field with Lowry, Kinsolver, Campbell, Hayes and Strohl for Franklin.

Mrs. Oscar Allen, of Brownstown spent the day in the city the guest of her son, Oakley M. Allen and family.

Mrs. C. E. Morton went to New Albany this morning to spend the day.

Western Electric Power and Light

"ATTABOY" $395.00

Your Extra Hired Hand

Electricity on the farm has arrived. The application of electric power and light means as much to the rural dweller as did the coming of the automobile.

The Western Electric Company announces the development of a new type of privately owned plant for making electricity. In point of safety, simplicity of operation and economy of investment, it offers advantages which put it in a class by itself. The new exclusive feature that distinguishes this plant from all others on the market is the Western Electric Automatic Regulator. This successfully meets the two weak points common to most plants:—

(1) It takes the place of the complicated switchboard and makes the starting or stopping of the engine a mere touch of the finger. No complex meters to puzzle over.

(2) It automatically regulates the charging of the batteries—always the most sensitive part of every lighting system—so as to materially increase their life.

Here's an opportunity for every farmer in this country to get a complete Western Electric Power and Light Outfit for ($395.00) Money talks—it got a supply of these sets for me and I'm willing to share my saving with you. This is a standard Western Electric Power and Light Outfit mounted on heavy stringers with a 1½ Horse Power International Kerosene Engine. By unscrewing 4 nuts you can take this engine anywhere on the farm to do any chore you have waiting for it. It takes but a few minutes to take the engine where you want it and it saves you money—one big engine for all the big jobs. A full set of the reliable large Western Electric Batteries goes with the outfit. The very special price is ($395.00) and it means the saving of many a hard earned dollar for you.

BOOZE SOLD OPENLY WHEN JUDGE GRANTS INJUNCTION

Sales by Distillers From Tax Paid Floor Stocks Protected by Injunction.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 14—For the first time since July 1, when war-time prohibition went into effect, whisky openly was sold in Louisville yesterday without interference by the Federal authorities. The sales were made by two Louisville distillers from their tax paid floor stock under the protection of a temporary injunction issued by Federal Judge Walter Evans, but in the face of a government warning that if the Supreme Court finds war-time prohibition constitutional, prosecutions were possible.

The action of Judge Evans apoarently attracted wide attention. Many messages were received asking for copies of the brief and arguments in th case in which the court, in effect, held war-time prohibition unconstitutional and upheld an attack upon the Volstead enforcement act. Pennsylvania liquor interests appeared especially interested. Messages from Pittsburg and Philadelphia announced intention of bringing simular suits in Federal Courts.

DUAL VICTORY IS WON AT ELWOOD

Trutona Not Only Relieved Pains But Built Up System, Woman Avers

DESCRIBES TONIC'S WORK

Appetite Is Wonderfully Improved And Headaches Have Vanished, Mrs. Akins Says

Elwood, Ind., Nov. 13—"Trutona has relieved me of my aches and pains in addition to building up my system and I can heartily recommend it to anyone suffering as I did," Mrs. Amanda Akins, 1822 North F. street, Elwood, said recently.

"I was suffering with nervousness and indigestion and my liver and kidneys were out of shape," she continued, "and for the past two months I've been experiencing severe headaches. I had no appetite at all and would have such severe pains in my side and back. I did not rest well, especially in the earlier part of the night. Ever since I had the influenza last November I've felt tired and draggy all the time.

"My appetite has improved wonderfully since I began using Trutona and my food tastes good now. The pains in my sides and back have ceased to occur, too. I sleep soundly all night long now and I don't feel all tired out in the mornings as I formerly did. I don't even have the headache any more. I feel considerably stronger, since taking Trutona."

Trutona is a tonic, appetizer, system purifier and invigorant. Its healthful action reaches every portion of the body. Thousands of men and women in Indiana and other states have testified recently to the beneficial results derived from Trutona's use for the treatment of stomach, bowel and liver trouble, lack of appetite, sleeplessness, nervousness, and general run-down condition.

Trutona is now being introduced and explained in Seymour at W. L. Federmann's Drug Store.

WORKS HARD TO AVERT FLU EPIDEMIC

Government and City Health Officials Warn People to Keep Clean.

Stay Away from People with Coughs and Colds.

"Avoid crowds if you want to avoid influenza," says Association for Improving the Conditions of New York.

Keep your hands clean, drink plenty of fresh water; sleep with windows open; eat three uniform meals a day including a good breakfast.

People who have catarrh or frequent colds invite Influenza, declares a prominent Kentucky druggist.

The membrane of the throat and nose is raw, sore and tender, and makes a lovely abiding place for germs to thrive and multiply.

He advises an inexpensive homemade remedy that will bring relief in less than a day and will stop all discharge and sooth and heal the inflamed membrane in a few days.

Thousands are making this beneficial remedy at home and anyone who has catarrh or a cold can do the same.

Pour three-quarters of an ounce of Mentholized Arcine into a pint bottle, then fill the bottle with water that has been boiled.

Gargle the throat as directed and snuff or spray the liquid into the nostrils twice daily. It's a simple way to get rid of cold and catarrh and keeps the nasal passage and throat clean and healthy.

Nearly all druggists dispense Mentholized Arcine in vials containing exactly three-quarters of an ounce, which is all you need to make a pint of this healthful medicine.

TWO STATES FIGHT OVER VALUABLE OIL LANDS

Red River Boundary Dispute May be Settled So Territory Will Go to Original Owners.

By United Press.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 13—The Red River boundary dispute, involving oil lands worth $200,000,000, may ultimately be settled in such a way that neither of the contesting states—Texas and Oklahoma—will get the territory.

And the land may revert to its true and original owners, the Wichita Indians.

At least that will be the decision if supreme court justices follow the suggestion of Joseph P. Thoburn, secretary of the Oklahoma Historical society.

The trouble started several years ago when a Texas judge fined and jailed Tom Testerman, an Oklahoma state senator and oil operator, for persisting in drilling on the land after the court had issued an injunction prohibiting it. The land is just south of the present Red River, which has shifted its course a mile and a half north of the original channel in the last century.

Oklahoma authorities appointed a receiver to take charge of the lands, which, by the meandering of the shifty little stream, had become apparently Texas property. Texas brought suit to prevent Oklahoma taking taking over the land, and finally, after armed strike was threatened, the case was taken to the United States supreme court, where it is now pending.

But, according to Thoburn, neither Texas nor Oklahoma has any claim on the land. It rightfully belongs to the Wichita Indians, he says, because they first inhabited the land and since being driven from it have not been paid for it by either Oklahoma, Texas or the federal government. Therefore, Thoburn asserts, the Indians still hold clear title to the country.

"The ancestors of the Wichita Indians have lived on both sides of Red River for a thousand years," said Thoburn, "For five hundred years they have occupied that part of the country along Red River where it traverses the Burkburnet oil fields.

"The right of Wichita Indians to these lands has never been extinguished by purchase, exchange or otherwise, though state and federal governments have seemingly proceeded on the theory that there was no such right. From the time of its foundation, the federal government always paid due regard, at least in form, to the extinguishment of title to lands which were claimed by the several Indian tribes under aboriginal occupancy. The one exception to this seems to be the case of the Wichita Indians.

"In 1818, certain chiefs and warriors of the Quapaw tribe, in council at St. Louis with United States commissioners, entered into a treaty by the terms of which they ceded all of the lands in Oklahoma and Texas between the Arkansas and Canadian rivers on the north and Red river on the south to the government. The fact that the Quapaw's lived in Arkansas and had never exercised any ownership over lands within two hundred miles of the region occupied by the Wichitas did not seem to have entered the consideration at all. Yet, with this as a basis the government granted these lands to the Choctaws two years later. More than thirty years elapsed before the Wichitas knew their country had been sold.

"Later the Chickasaws purchased an interest in the lands granted the Choctaws. Some of the land was later leased to the government for the purpose of locating tribes of the great plains. Two bands of the Wichitas lived south of the Red river, in Texas.

"In 1858 the main village or settlement of the Wichita tribe was located near Rush Springs. In the autumn a band of Comanches came to feast on the farm products which the Wichitas had raised. While the Comanches were encamped there a force of United States cavalry attacked them and many were killed in the battle that followed. The Comanches accused the Wichitas of betraying them. To escape dire consequences the Wichitas abandoned their fields and ungathered crops and fled to Fort Arbuckle for protection.

"After the Civil War they went north into Kansas and settled temporarily at the mouth of the little Arkansas on he site of the present city of Wichita, Kansas.

"It will be seen that the people of these tribes had left their homes, not from choice but from direct necessity. They were never permitted to return. They never relinquished their hereditary rights to the lands along both banks of the Red river. The fact that they were compelled to leave against their own will cannot be construed as voluntary abandonment."

How Jim Made His Feeders "Top The Market"

JIM seemed to have better "luck" with his feeders than his neighbors. Time after time his cattle "topped the market" at Chicago and South Omaha.

Finally, Charlie Bascom from down Northville way, came right out bluntly and asked, "How in the world do you do it, Jim?"

And Jim told him.

"One 'how' is right here in my hand," confessed Jim, holding up a copy of Successful Farming. "There isn't an issue of this paper that fails to give me valuable pointers on feeding and other matters pertaining to making money on feeders. Certainly the most practical, downright helpful publication I get.

"You see, Successful Farming is largely edited by its subscribers—practical farmers with just the same problems as you and I, Charlie. That's why the articles in it are so useful—and down-to-the-soil correct.

"For instance, one article in it showed me where I'd been making mistakes in winter feeding and watering. That one article was worth 10 years' subscription price to me. Taught me a lot about feeding roughage and grain to get best results—to stimulate the cattle's digestion and make them get more 'good' out of their feed.

"Another time, another article gave me helpful 'tips' about how to grow the best feeding crops—and how to feed them to best advantage to stock on my farm.

"Most important of all—this paper has shown me how to use my pencil and paper to figure rations, costs and other items which enter into the cost of feeder-gains. It has, in various ways, shown me how to know exactly how much it costs me for every pound of gain my cattle make. That has enabled me to not only send prime cattle to market, but also come home with prime profits in my pocket. It has taught me how to maintain a good margin of profit between my cost of gain and the market prices—so that I can feel more comfortable if the market breaks a bit.

"That's why I like and read Successful Farming. Its practical help has enabled me to take a lot of the gambling out of stock raising."

800,000 farmers, their wives and their whole families, take a lively interest in Successful Farming. Every issue contains articles that will help you in every department of farm home and farm work. Probably no other paper in America has the same co-operation of the majority of its subscribers as has Successful Farming. It helps its subscribers because its subscribers help Successful Farming.

Think of getting such a paper as this for merely 35 cents a year—$1 for three years.

And, remember, more than 800,000 of America's shrewdest farmers—more than 800,000 of America's most prosperous and happy farm families—read and rely on Successful Farming.

ACCIDENT PREVENTION CAMPAIGN TO BE EXTENDED

Results of Co-operative Efforts of Companies and Employes Highly Satisfactory.

In view of the splendid results obtained during the National Railroad Accident Prevention Drive, which ended Saturday morning, November 1st, Federal Manager Galloway who has charge of the Cumberland Valley, Cumberland & Pennsylvania, and Western Maryland Railroads, in addition to the Baltimore and Ohio Eastern Lines, and Mr. R. N. Begien, Federal Manager of the Baltimore and Ohio Western Lines, have announced that the campaign will be continued during this month and December.

The whole machinery which functioned so admirably during the fourteen days of the national drive will be kept going and gratifying results are expected. During the drive, which recently ended, every railroad in the country under federal control took part.

The United States Railroad Administration, which conducted the last drive, has not yet announced final figures and it probably will be a week before it will be known which railroad came out with the largest percentage in the reduction of accidents.

From October 18 to 31, 1918, there was one employe killed and 28 injured on the Western Maryland Railroad. During the recent drive, there was none killed and only five injured. On the Cumberland & Pennsylvania, there was none killed and three injured in the two-week period of 1918, and none killed or injured during the time of the drive. The Cumberland Valley also went through the last weeks of October 191 9without a casualty, as compared with five injured in same period of 1918.

Employes of the Cumberland & Pennsylvania and the Cumberland Valley are very proud of their record of 100 per cent for the recent drive. The Charleston and Illinois Divisions of the Baltimore and Ohio, and the Glenwood Shops, also had a perfect record, while the Newark Division had 95 per cent.

When J. T. Broderick, superintendent of the Safety and Welfare Department of the Baltimore and Ohio System, who arranged the details for the recent drive and who inspired the workers to expend every ounce of energy for success, learned the final figures, he urged that the accident prevention machinery be kept going until the end of the year, and the announcement has been received with enthusiasm.

In authorizing the continuance of the drive, Federal Manager Galloway made the following announcement:

"Now that it has been demonstrated by the result of the National Railroad Accident Prevention Drive on the various railroads what can be accomplished in accident prevention among employes and particularly as shown by the splendid record that has been made by the Baltimore and Ohio, Western Maryland and other lines under by jurisdiction compared with the same period of 1918, there is no reason why, with the same determined and concerted effort on the part of officers and employes, we cannot continue to reduce accidents of this character.

"With this in view, I have instructed the Superintendent of the Safety and Welfare Department to keep a record, bginning November 1, and continuing during the months of November and December, of the accidents to employes which are reportable to the Interstate Commerce Commission, with the hope of making a very material reduction compared with the same period of 1918.

"It affords me great pleasure to congratulate you on the splendid results you have obtained on the properties under your respective jurisdictions in the drive which has just ended. With this record before you I am sure it will be a pronounced incentive to accomplish even better results during the ensuing months and you will bring this matter to the attention of officers and employes in such a way that nothing will be left undone to accomplish the results that we confidently expect."

EXCESSIVE PROFIT TAX BLANKS TO BE ISSUED SOON

Department of Internal Revenue Preparing to Take Care of Early Returns.

Plans for the issuance early in December of forms for filing income excess profits returns are being made by the bureau of internal revenue Taxpayers will thus be given the opportunity of making out their returns immediately upon the closing of their books for the year 1919, when accurate knowledge of their accounts is fresh in their minds.

As a convenience to themselves and as a means of expediting the work of the government, taxpayers are urged by the bureau, in a statement issued yesterday, to avail themselves of this opportunity. The period for filing is from Jan. 1 to March 15, 1920.

If the tax is paid in quarterly installments, one-fourth of the amount must accompany the filing of the return.

Form 1040-A will be used for filing individual income tax returns for $5,000 and less, and Form 1040 for filing returns of income in excess to that amount. The normal rate of tax for 1919, provided for in the revenue act of 1918, is 4 per cent on the first $4,000 above the exemptions, and 8 per cent on the remaining net income. The tax for 1918 was 6 and 12 per cent respectively. The surtax rates, which range from 1 per cent on the amount of net income between 5,000 and $6,000 to 65 per cent of the amount by which the net income exceeds $1,000,000, are the same as far the year 1918. The exemptions of $1,000 for single persons and $2,000 for married persons and heads of families remain unchanged.

These rates apply to every citizen and resident of the United States. Alien non-residents receiving income from sources within the United States are subject to the full tax of 8 per cent of such income in excess of exemptions.

Form 1041 will be used for filing returns of fiduciaries, Form 1065 for partnerships and personal service corporations, and Form 1120 for corporations.

Announcement will be made later of the date on which the forms will be available at the offices of collectors of internal revenue and branch offices.

BEST MEDICINE HE EVER SAW

Son Gains In Weight and Strength After Taking Meritone

"I want to recommend Meritone as the best medicine I ever saw," said W. H. Prather, a well-known employe of the N., C. & St. L. Ry., of No. 4 Bessie Street, Chattanooga, Tenn.

"My son's health was all run down after he got up from an attack of the influenza. He had no energy at all and could hardly drag around. His appetite was so poor that he didn't care for anything to eat.

"He kept going down and fell off in weight and nothing did him any good.

"Finally I heard of Meritone and what it was doing for others, and decided to let him try it.

"Since taking two bottles he has gained five pounds and just can't get enough to eat.

"That tired, draggy feeling has left him and he delights in doing his school work now.

"He has a better color and sleeps fine. In fact, Meritone has made a new boy out of him and he is as happy as can be."

Meritone is sold exclusively in Seymour by Maxon's Pharmacy.

Where Can I Find Relief From Itching, Terrifying Eczema?

Question on Lips of Afflicted.

There is a harrassing discomfort caused by Eczema that almost becomes a torture. The itching is almost unbearable, and the skin seems on fire with the burning irritation. A cure from local applications of salves and ointments is impossible, because such treatment can only allay the pain temporarily. The disease can only be reached by going deep down to its source, which is in the blood, the disease being caused by an infection which breaks out through the skin. That is why the most satisfactory treatment for all so-called skin diseases is S. S. S., which acts by cleansing the blood. Get a bottle to-day, and you will see results from the right treatment. HOPE (IND.) MAN DECLARES ELECTRIC LIGHT AIDS HENS

U. R. Fishel to Keep Hens Awake Until 10 P. M. So They Will Lay More Eggs.

Now the hens will have to form a union and strike.

They will if they get wind of the evidence introduced by U. R. Fishel, owner of extensive poultry farms near Hope, Ind., at a hearing conducted by E. I. Lewis, chairman of the Public Service Commission, at Hope on the petition of Pulse & Porter to abandon its electric system in the town.

Mr. Fishel explained at the hearing that he had about $10,000 worth of electrical equipment at his farms with which he hatched as many as 18,000 chickens at one time. He protested against the abandonment of the service.

The following testimony appears in the commission's record:

"I had recently talked to the electric company about extending the line down to the farm. It has been demonstrated that hens, by being kept awake until 10 o'clock at night and by being awakened at 4 o'clock a. m. will increase the egg production 50 per cent. And even a 25 per cent increase in production, when eggs are worth $1 to $5 a piece, would make the electricity be worth very much to me."

Mr. Fishel had previously explained that he sold his eggs for settings of high grade poultry. He said that he intended wiring all the hen houses with lights that could be turned on and off intermittently so that the illumination would keep the hens awake.

Miss Helen Barnes went to Bloomington this morning to spend the week-end with Miss Magdaline Fettig, who is a student at Indiana University.

BRAZIL MAY BE NEXT DRY NATION

Campaign Against Alcohol Launched by President Epitacio Pessoa in Last Message.

LONG CAMPAIGN FORESEEN

Action of United States in Prohibiting Liquor is Being Used as An Argument.

(By H. B. Robertson, United Press Staff Correspondent)

Rio De Janeiro, Nov. 14—Brazil, following the example of the United States, may be the second American republic to adopt prohibition.

The campaign against alcohol was launched by President Epitacio Pessoa in his last message to congress and was immediately taken up with unexpected vigor by the majority of the press of the country. Alarmed by the determined attacks of press and statesmen, the liquor interests are already raising the cry of "personal liberty" and the same campaign which resulted in a "dry" United States promises to be enacted to the bitter finish in Brazil.

In his message to congress President Pessoa cited the example of the United States in adopting a constitutional amendment prohibiting the manufacture and sale of alcoholic drinks and suggested to the Brazilian congress that the time has come for the legislative body of Brazil to grapple with the problem. He indicated, however, that the extreme difficulty of obtaining amendments to the Brazilian constitution made it more practical to tax the booze industry to death than to legislate prohibition of manufacture and sale.

President Pessoa's suggestions for high taxation on the booze industry were supported by statements showing that one of the essential tasks of the present Brazilian congress is to find a way to increase the government's revenues and to reduce its expenditures.

As the first step of carrying out the president's suggestions Deputy Juvenal Lamartine has offered a bill in the chamber of deputies doubling the federal tax on beer and light wines and tripling the taxes on liquors and other strong alcoholic drinks. It is reported that the bill has excellent chances of being voted into law.

In the campaign of propaganda against alcohol which has been inaugurated in the press all of the arguments that were used in the United States, together with some new ones and other peculiar to local conditions, are being exponded.

The antis, for instance, are quoting statistics showing the infant mortality due to alcohol, liability to disease, insanity and crime because of the same scourge. In addition they are calling attention to the fact that the eight hour labor law is in force in practically all of Brazil and they are urging means of preventing the working classes from devoting their new found leisure hours to the attractions of the saloon and tavern. The argument is also being used that in general the Brazilians themselves are very moderate drinkers, but that excessive drinking prevails to a regrettable extent in the huge foreign colonies domiciled here.

It is argued that the most severe restrictions should be placed on alcohol, if for no other reason than to enable the country to more easily handle the huge tide of immigration which the signing of peace turned toward Brazil. It is declared that many "undesirables," who are not content to emigrate to a "dry" United States will seek the greater freedom of South America and that therefore it is up to the government to be on its guards.

In order that legitimate industry may not suffer the Lamartine bill provides that denatured alcohol shall be exempt from taxation.

Coincident with the anti-booze fight a strong campaign against the social evil has been launched, and it is quite possible that in the not distant future government control will be established similar to that in force in many European countries.

SWINDLERS HAD TRAP SET FOR FARMER VICTIM

Intervention by Detectives at Indianapolis Saved Illinois Man $25,000.

Indianapolis, Nov. 14—Timely intervention by two city detectives saved approximately $25,000 for Harve Dillenback, age thirty-three, a farmer from DeKalb, Ill. The detectives arrested one of the two alleged "con" men, who were about to relieve Dillenback of his money, it is charged.

Dillenback, who, with one of the alleged swindlers, Carl Lauerman, was found in a room at the Oneida hotel by Detectives Winkler and Hanks, was so confident that he was not going to be duped that it was several hours before the detectives could convince him of the fraud.

Dillenback met Lauerman at DeKalb and Lauerman suggested that he accompany him to Indianapolis to look at a farm which his brother had picked out for him to buy. Dillenback came and when eating breakfast at the Hotel Severin found a pocketbook under his chair. It contained $40, several racing stubs and a card bearing the name of George Kirk.

Lauerman and Dillenback found Kirk in his room and as a "reward" received $20 each. Kirk then induced Dillenback and Lauerman to bet the $40 on horse races. They did and when Kirk returned he gave each $50, which he told them they had won. The bets were then increased until each had "won" about $600.

At this point, Kirk asked that a larger sum of money be raised. Lauerman said he could get $25,000. Dillenback said he believed he could raise a similar amount. Kirk then wrote out two checks, saying he would put up the money until they had time to get it. Lauerman placed the bets, Dillenback said, and on returning said he had won on a 3 to 1 shot, the spoils being $100,000. He said he would not be able to collect the money until he had deposited $50,000 in a local bank.

Dillenback hurried back to DeKalb mortgaged his farm for $25,000. He returned to Indianapolis Monday and deposited the drafts at a local bank. The detectives learned of the affair and their investigation resulted in Lauerman's arrest. Kirk, who was staying at the Severin, "checked out" before detectives could get to his room.

SOCIAL EVENTS

GOLD MINE ASSOCIATION

The Gold Mine Association met last evening at the department store for the regular business session. Following the reading of the minutes, a telegram was read from Mr. and Mrs. Simon Strauss in reply to a message sent by the association on their trip to California where they will spend the winter.

The principal talk of the evening was given by N. Kaufman who emphasized store efficiency. Following Mr. Kaufman's address short talks were made by several of the members in which recommendations and suggestions were offered. The association has a membership of thirty and the meetings are interesting and beneficial.

express his opinion. C. H. Wiethoff, chairman of the organization, is still holding the contract which was drawn up after the close of the chautauqua this year and did not desire to dispose of it definitely until the majority of the guarantors had expressed their opinion.

When the chautauqua closed last summer the platform manager proposed that a number of local men guarantee the course next year. Accordingly he drew up a blank form explaining how the course would be paid for. In all fifty-three men signed the tentative agreement. Since that time one of the guarantors has died and three have moved from the city. The contract for the course has never been signed and the bureau is anxious to have the matter settled at once. It was for this reason that Mr. Wiethoff called the guarantors for a conference.

Many who have been strongly in favor of the chautauqua movement express doubt if the Redpath program would be a success here next year. The bureau places a fixed price of $2.75 for season tickets to which the war tax of 25 cents will be added. The contract form states that seven hundred tickets at this price must be sold at least one day before the chautauqua opens.

Some of the guarantors are doubtful if seven hundred season tickets can be sold at $2 each. They realize that in case of a loss they would have to make good any deficiency. It was proposed that the season tickets be placed in the hands of the guarantors for sale with the understanding that each would be responsible for the sale of a specified number. This plan does not appear to be satisfactory.

Before final action is taken an explanation of the situation will be made to each guarantor. Mr. Wiethoff stated that he did not believe that the majority of the guarantors were in favor of assuming the obligation and is doubtful if the contract would be signed. The Redpath bureau has sent two men here recently in an effort to close the contract but final action was refused until after sentiment of the men who stood good for the course was known.

war and that the war is not ended. Some of them were disposed to emphasize that comparatively few of the miners have returned to work in obedience to their leaders' instructions and it was expected the union chiefs would be asked about this at the outset of the meeting.

Secretary of Labor Wilson who called the conference, has invited Dr. Harry A. Garfield, fuel administrator, to participate in the hope that if any agreement cannot be reached within a reasonable time the government may be able to offer an increase in the price of coal to the consumer, so the operators will have increased revenue to pay higher wages. Garfield, who is in charge of coal prices, was in a position to give expert advice on just what a raise in pay will mean to the coal market.

That Lewis and his colleagues will not be left in doubt as to how radical labor stands on the miners' case, "Mother" Jones, of Colorado fame, and Andy Furuseth, head of the seamen's union, are here to let them know. Both are emphatic in their disapproval of Lewis' compliance with Federal Judge Anderson's order to end the strike.

While the miners and operators were preparing to meet, Rail Director Hines and representatives of railroad brotherhoods expected to continue their conferences over the railroad men's demands for a wage increase. Hines was expected to make a definite answer to the brotherhoods today or tomorrow.

license and gets permission from the farmers upon whose places he hunts may shoot quail during the open season.

There is a state law governing the number of quail that may be shot in any one day and a limit to the number of quail a person may have in his possession at any one time during the open season. The law is: "Whoever shoots, kills or has in his possession more than fifteen quail in any one day between the tenth day of November and the twentieth day of December of any year shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined $10 for each quail so shot, killed or possessed in excess of fifteen. Provided, that any person having hunted three days or more in succession may have a total not to exceed forty-five quail, killed by himself during such hunt."

The selling of quail is prohibited by the following state law: "Whoever sells, or offers for sale, directly or indirectly, at any time, any quail shall, on conviction, be fined $10 for each quail sold or offered for sale."

Soldiers, sailors and marines of the United States who have seen service during any of the nation's wars are exempted from purchasing license. All they have to do is to carry their discharge or a certified copy of their discharge with them whiel hunting.

How the Cletrac

TANK-TYPE TRACTOR

Saves Money on Road Work

FIGURE out for yourself the cost per day of, say, six of your very best horses and mules.

You will find that you have an investment of not less than $1,500 and an upkeep cost of at least $900 to $1,000 a year.

Now go over your records—see just how many days those six animals worked during the last twelve months.

Remember that those days that they did not work must be counted as dead loss.

With these figures before you, you have a fair, conservative standard with which to compare Cletrac power—for on hundreds of road jobs the Cletrac is handling more work day in and day out than six horses and six mules can handle.

And it keeps on working regardless of weather conditions, and it isn't eating up a high priced feed while idle.

The Cletrac is the only moderate-priced tractor that works successfully over the rough ground.

PUT COLLEGE SAVINGS CLUBS IN ALL THE HIGH SCHOOLS

Seventh District W. S. S. Organization to Aid Children Build Up Fund for Education.

College Savings clubs in all the high schools of the Seventh district is the aim of the War Savings educational committee, of which Shailer Mathews is the chairman. This new plan was decided upon at a recent meeting of the committee at the Chicago headquarters. The object is to get high school students to prepare for a college education through saving and investment in War Savings stamps. To secure special training in a college, technical school, normal school, professional school or university costs money, but regular saving by high school students will open the way for any boy or girl of determination. Money can be earned after school, on Saturdays and during the vacation periods. Some boys and girls have an allowance from parents. Frequently they receive cash gifts. This money put into Thrift and War Savings stamps will work for the high school students while they are getting their preliminary education.

Mrs. Alfred J. Benson, manager of the division of schools and churches for Illinois, strongly urged the keeping of a personal account by children. She points out that there are three sources of income for the school child. They are individual earnings, allowances by the parents and gifts. Some system of individual accounts for school children may be worked out by the committee later.

The normal schools and teachers' colleges of the district will receive the attention of the committee. An effort will be made to have Thrift courses put in both these classes of educational institutions at once.

Useful Christmas Gifts That Any Boy Can Make

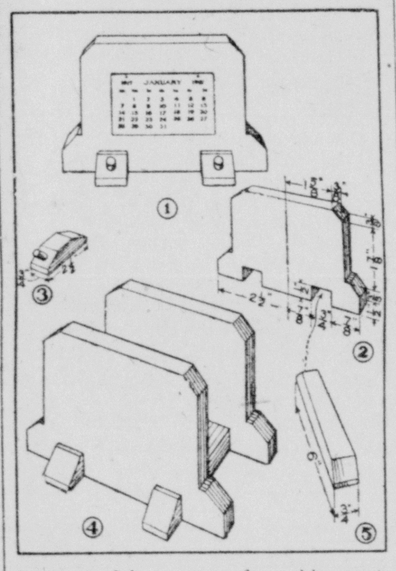

By A. NEELY HALL

(Copyright, by A. Neely Hall.)

It requires no more time to make a useful gift than one which will be of no practical value, so why not decide, before beginning this season's gifts, what will be appropriate for those whom you wish to remember?

Calendar-Board and Pen-Rack.

Of the smaller gifts, nothing would be better appreciated than this article for one's desk. Fig. 2 shows a pattern for the board. If you haven't hardwood, go to a carpenter. He will let you pick a scrap from his waste pile, or will sell you a piece for a few cents. Wood three-eighths-inch thick is just right. Both sides must be cut alike, and the surest way to get them so is to draw a center-line, first, then lay off the measurements each side of this. The notches in the bottom edge receive the base blocks (Fig. 3). Bore a small hole in the beveled portion of one end of each base block, glue a peg in it to form the front of the pen-rack, and fasten the blocks in the notches cut for them.

Sandpaper all surfaces, then apply some wood stain and wax. A small calendar-pad tacked to the center of the board, and felt glued to the underside of the base blocks, will complete the gift.

Postcard Rack.

The same pattern that was used for the calendar-board (Fig. 2) is required for the ends of the postcard-rack in Fig. 4, and Fig. 5 shows a pattern for the base strips, which fasten in the notches in the bottom of the end pieces. Finish the wood with stain and wax.

Book-Rack.

The book-rack in the illustration is made of wood five-eighths inch thick.

First, prepare the base board by the pattern of Fig. 2, then the pair of ends by the pattern of Fig. 3, then two pairs of brackets like the one in Fig. 4. These seven pieces are all that the rack requires. Be careful to get the sides of the end pieces symmetrical. Bevel the edges of the baseboard.

assembling the parts, and place these in the positions indicated in Fig. 1. A coat of stain, then one of wax, and a button of felt glued to the underside of the base at each corner, will complete the bookrack.

Waste-Basket.

An 8 by 8 inch board, for a base (Fig. 2), four strips out of which to make a frame of the same size as the basebo[illegible] in half for side strips, a few finishing nails, and 32 round-head blued screws, are all that you need for the pretty waste-basket shown in Fig. 1.

Plane the laths smooth, trim off their ends and bore holes a trifle larger than the screws, near the ends. Screw the side strips to the base edges, four to a side, then prepare the top frame of the form shown in Fig. 3 and screw the upper ends of the strips to it.

Wood stain and wax, or two coats of paint or white enamel may be applied to finish the woodwork.

A Fiction.

That God being good is the author of evil to anyone, that is to be strenuously denied, and not allowed to be sung or said in any well-ordered commonwealth by old or young. Such a fiction is suicidal, ruinous, impious.—Socrates, in Plato's "Republic."

The Law of God.

Wealth is a weak anchor, and glory cannot support a man; this is the law of God, that virtue only is firm, and cannot be shaken by a tempest.—Pythagoras.

A Novelty in Fans

Small palm-leaf fans, all decked out with pretty furbelows are among the novelties that have been brought out for Christmas gifts. These fans are first painted any desired color and then varnished. Then the edge is bound with ribbon having a picot edge or with gold or silver braid or other fancy binding. A spray of millinery flowers is tied against the handle, on one side of the fan, and the handle wound with ribbon that is tied in a bow below the flowers. Or flowers may be painted on the fan or made with sealing wax, as in the fan pictured here. This sample is bound with silver braid and has a long tassel of silver tinsel besides a ribbon bow on the handle. It is pretty in turquoise blue, rose color, red, etc., with ribbon and flowers in colors that harmonize, and is easy to make at home.

Republican Want Advs. Get Results.

What would you do without newspaper advertisements?

What if there were no advertisements in any newspaper?

Lost and found articles might never be restored to their owners. Buying, selling and renting houses would be greatly delayed.

Merchants would be compelled to depend almost entirely upon those who passed by their stores for their trade.

Such a condition would set the hands of the clock of progress back two hundred years. It would limit trade. It would bring delays and annoyances and make purchasing risky and expensive.

This goes to show how important newspaper advertisements have become in our every day affairs.

Read them fully and faithfully. It may mean many added advantages in your life and dollars in your pocketbook.

itself and heading diagonally bounded over a ridge, somersaulted, flung out the men and rolled over and over down the hill.

"It stopped standing upright on its radiator. The motor was still running. The steering gear was apparently undamaged."

An ambulance was rushed from Tucson and the bodies taken to an undertaking establishment.

The accident occurred at 11:20 a. m. Monday. Bottorff's daughter, Mrs. Pressley Bittick, Patterson apartments, heard the report as it was megaphoned to a crowd near the San Jacinto plaza. She fainted. An ambulance was called for her and she was taken to her home.

The scene of the accident was a death-curve, low and wide, 20 miles east of Tucson.

Bottorff took the curve at top speed. The big Haynes left the road, was righted with the motor roaring, plunged again from the road and somersaulted.

Bottorff was found in a crouched driving position, indicating life had been snuffed out before he was thrown from the ill-fated racer.

Brown was lying a few feet away from Bottorff's body.

On Bottorff's wrist a watch was still running. It read 11:20 when Gamatis reached the scene. The speedometer of the car registered 84 miles per hour.

Saturday Bottorff laughingly told a friend in the city hall: "They'll beat me only over my dead body." His confidence in the car he drove amounted almost to worship. It was a specially constructed car, 12 cylindered multi-valved, and was reputed the last word in factory-built racing creations. Its top speed was supposed to be 100 miles an hour.

Bottorff's wife was awaiting him in Phoenix. She left El Paso Sunday. As soon as word of the accident reached Phoenix she was taken to Tucson. The daughter, Mrs. Bittick, left for Tucson Monday afternoon.

He was 42 years old and came to El Paso about 15 years ago. He was for a time an engineer on the El Paso & Southwestern railroad. He came here from Columbus, Indiana, where he worked for the Pennsylvania railroad. For a time he was a locomotive engineer in Mexico.

Three years ago he gave up railroad work and associated himself with a younger brother, Orville Bottorff, in the West Texas Motor company.

Besides the widow, brother and daughter mentioned, he is survived by his father, M. F. Bottorff, Seymour, Ind., Dean, Cleve, Kelsa and Walter Bottorff, brothers, and two sisters.

Little is known of Brown, the machanician. He came to El Paso a short time ago and has been living at the Orndorff hotel. His body will be brought here for burial.

MARION

E. J. Hughes died at his home at Crothersville November 6 after an illness of several months. The funeral was held here Sunday conducted by Rev. I. C. Overman. "Uncle Evan" as he was known was almost 77 years old and spent the greater part of his life in this neighborhood and was an active member of our church. He retired from active life about twelve years ago since which time he has made his home in Crothersville.

Several farmers have been unable to sow their wheat crop in this vicinity on account of the continued rains. The corn in the bottoms has also been seriously damaged.

P. M. Downs and wife motored to Rushville Saturday to visit with relatives.

Early Keith is moving from A. Deputy's farm to J. L. Barnes' place.

Our New Serial

The

Devil's Own

By Randall Parrish

THE tale concerns chiefly a diabolical plot by Joe Kirby (The Devil's Own) to first ruin at poker, Judge Beaucaire, a Missouri planter, and then get possession of his daughter. This comes to the knowledge of Lieutenant Knox of the regular army, who happens to be on the boat where the plot is conceived. He is powerless to prevent the robbery and the death of the Judge which follows, but he takes the cause of the girl as his own and after a series of exciting adventures defeats the scheme of the villainous gambler. The time is at the outbreak of the Black Hawk War, which forms part of the background of the story.

Diamond Cut Diamond

By JANE BUNKER

What did I mean to do?—tell him I'd go? And if I did, was I to take the diamonds or leave them behind in the house? At that instant of indecision and perplexity my eye lighted upon the note sent up by my recent mysterious caller—the supposed detective. My counter-move! I drew it from the envelope and with it I made a fresh start in conversation.

"I appreciate it so much that I treat you with a corresponding confidence and I ask you to explain one or two little matters so that I may avoid any difficulties that may arise while I'm discussing the matter with Mrs. Delario."

"Wis pleasure—anysing—"

"Well, this—I should like an explanation of this note."

I put it in his hand.

He read it, frowned, turned it over to see if there were anything on the other side and still frowning said, "Zis note? I know nossing of zis note." And he read aloud—"'Mademoiselle Claire de Ravenol has disappeared! My daughter has not disappeared—except so far she has disappeared zis morning to Madame Delario's house."

His words and manner to my mind at once disposed of the hypothesis that the new man was monsieur's accomplice; but I went on: "The man who sent this up—and whom I saw—claimed to be a detective in your employ."

Monsieur gave a start. "A detective—in my employ—looks for my daughter! Impossible! When do you receive zis note?"

"About two hours ago!"

"A detective—two hours ago tells you I employ him to seek for my daughter! What does it mean? I have employ no one to seek for my daughter—no one. He tells you an untruse. What have you sought is his object to tell you zat he seeks my daughter?"

"I thought it was a plot against her."

"A plot against Claire! Mon Dieu! Zis I am not prepare for."

He was too genuinely shocked and astonished for me to doubt his word and I went on, "Yes—and Mrs. Delario thought so, too—and Mr. Rivers, they both saw the note and thought it was a plot against Claire. The same man was at her house last night looking for Claire just after you had left to go to the hotel for her. Perhaps her fainting here actually saved her from him," I added, quite keen on the dramatic side of it all and feeling that it was an excellent counter-irritant to diamonds.

"Mon Dieu! What kind of a plot? And who—Mon Dieu!"

Instantly I saw my chance and used it: Mrs. Delario still had the whip-handle end of the situation; she had his daughter in her keeping while he was talking about arresting her son!

"Mrs. Delario and I both thought," I said firmly, "that there is a plot on foot to kidnap Claire and hold her for ransom. It could be done."

He shrank as if he'd been struck a blow.

"That is what Mrs. Delario came to see me about this morning," I cried, pushing my advantage as fast as I could. "She is frightened—she believes something is going to happen—and with you in California—"

"I am not in California," he put in hastily. "But it was necessary zat I make some adequate reason why I leave my daughter wis her for day or two—a few hours, only, I had expected—"

"Until you can arrest her son! Oh, for shame, monsieur!" I exclaimed hotly, with both real and assumed indignation. He tried to excuse himself, "But ze arrest of Monsieur Eugene is only a possibility—in case you fail to impress her wis ze wisdom of to return zoze diamonds immediately; a possibility zat you avoid for her entirely."

"Your obligations to Mrs. Delario are now such—"

"Oui—I appreciate it—ze situation is changed in an instant of time. . . . But zis man—he calls upon you and he asks you some questions about my daughter and you tell him—"

"He got nothing out of me—why, of course not! I put him off till tomorrow—I wouldn't even let him in."

"He returns? And he goes perhaps once more to Madame Delario's and she tells him Claire is in her house!"

Monsieur bounded up at that, white as a sheet, and I was just trying to reassure him—telling him that Mrs. Delario would guard Claire as she would her own child—when the front bell rang.

I made a sign to him for silence, thinking it was Billy come back with his news, but wishing to keep on the safe side, went noisily along the hall and opened the door a crack against the chain-bolt to reconnoiter before I let anyone in.

It was my unknown visitor of the morning—the detective! And somehow I wasn't surprised!

"What, you here again?" I exclaimed testily, and in a voice loud enough for monsieur to hear—and I knew he was straining every nerve to do it, too.

It came over me in a flash that now was my chance to get it "coming and going"—that, having played on his fears for Claire, I'd see if I could play on his fears for himself; I'd make the detective talk loud enough for monsieur to learn something.

"I am sorry to trouble you again—after what you said," the detective apologized. "But the case is so urgent—if you will spare me ten minutes now, it may save a life."

My reply was to laugh in the man's face. He drew back a step.

"If you come here pestering me any more about anything," I retorted, "I shall telephone for police protection. I don't know who you are, or what you are after, but I do know that when you came here the first time, you told me a pointblank lie and that is enough for me."

He changed his tactics so suddenly it almost took my breath. He came close to the door and admitted: "That is true—I did tell you a lie. It was rendered necessary by the extreme difficulties of the case in hand."

"Well—and what was the lie?"

"I told you I was looking for the daughter—knowing that you must have some little interest in her and would respond to my note and allow me to see you. I wished to find the daughter, but only that I might find—her father."

He stopped abruptly, as if hoping I'd say something to the point.

"I told you that I would see you tomorrow."

"You may regret your delay." His tone sounded threatening.

"All right—then I'll regret it."

"Really, madame, I feel I must insist—for your own sake, since you are acquainted with Monsieur De Ravenol—"

"I'd like to know what you mean, coming here and forcing yourself on me this way?" I cried, in partly feigned exasperation. "You haven't even troubled to tell me your name, and how do I know what you are?"

"Ah—so that is it!" he smiled, and light appeared to break upon his understanding. "You are afraid of me!"

"I am."

He laughed. "Well, that is a confession! In five minutes—in one minute—I can convince you."

"I hope you can—tomorrow morning," said I, and pressed on the door to show him I had no more to say to him.

He hesitated, and then probably deciding that there was no more to gain by trying to force me to see him, told me, "I will return in the morning with credentials," and bowed himself off. He went down the stairs without ringing for the elevator.

I had totally forgotten monsieur and the diamonds—alone together—and my heart dropped into my boots as I turned from the door, and bounced up into my throat as I caught the first glimpse of him. He had tiptoed to the hall archway and was pressed against it, where he could hear every word, yet remain unseen. He was actually clinging there for support and shaking—not trembling, but shaking.

"Are you ill?" I asked, for he looked like a corpse.

He pointed to indicate the man who had just left and gasped out, "It is a plot against my daughter," staggered to the nearest chair and crumpled up in a heap.

From considerable experience with the Latin temperament, I long ago came to the conclusion that it "works in a mysterious way its wonders to perform;" and certainly its emotional reactions are so much more histrionic than one is accustomed to in Anglo-Saxon life that I was not completely unhinged when monsieur collapsed in a chair and buried his face in his hands and began to sob. Even then I had a sneaking suspicion that he was not without an eye to the main chance in its dramatic effect on me; his fate was in my hands and he had to make every appeal that would work.

I said, "Ssh" and tiptoed back along the hall, threw open the front door as wide as I could get it on the chain-bolt and peeped out to see if the detective had returned and was eavesdropping. But though I thought I heard a slight shuffling noise on the stairs, I could see nothing and did not dare to investigate more intimately and went back to my study with another "Ssh" to monsieur, who by this time was alive again to the case.

"It was you he was after—didn't you hear what he said?"

"Oui—I hear everysing—and it is my little Claire." He buried his face in his hands and his shoulders heaved as if he were weeping.

I didn't relish this sort of a scene with him, and besides, time was pressing—if this man were trying to find Claire and kidnap her, something had to be done immediately.

"Do you sink zat man suspects I am here?" asked monsieur, suddenly looking up.

"No—I don't see how he can. But I think he's trying to find out where you are."

"Oui! And why does he seek me? Only zat he knows if I have my daughter still wis me—and can protect her from zoze who have already seek to steal her from me once before."

"Oh! Then you know who this is?"

"I do not see him, but I sink to recognize his voice. It is a plot against us—it is a plot on ze part of France to prevent ze treaty wis Mexico. Oui! Mon Dieu— it has in some way become known zat I am ze secret messenger of ze emperor and spies are sent out to follow me and if not to kill me, at least to keep me from going to Mexico until it is too late!"

Monsieur put the case tersely. And tragically.

"And do you not see ze plot?" he cried. "Zey accuse me of some crime—zey have me put under arrest and while I am in prison zey get my little Claire."

"But what crime, monsieur? You have not done anything on this side of the water have you, that any one can get hold of?"

"Bah! I do nossing! Zey bring forged papers from France—perhaps zey extradite me before I can even say farewell to my child."

"But haven't you got some proofs on your side?" I ventured. "You can make it evident to the court—"

"To—ze—court!" he fairly hissed the words at me. "Mon Dieu—what is it you say? Ze messenger of ze emperor under arrest in America?" He drew out his handkerchief aud wiped his brow. "What does it matter if I prove zis or zat—I am under arrest—she is left at ze mercy of zoze scoundrels! I could kill zem with my naked hands!"

"Why not let Mrs. Delario take her immediately to California?" was the bright suggestion from me.

He met it with scorn. "How far does madame get wis her? To Chicago? To Pittsburgh? Probably she does not even leave New York! She gets into a sleeping-car, and a man—two men—a man and a woman, perhaps—step up to her and say, 'You are kidnaping zat young girl—you are under arrest—come wis us immediately.' And Madame Delario—what does she do? She goes wis zem—naturally; she dares not do uzzerwise. She gets in a carriage wis zoze strange people and zey take her where zey please—she and a young girl can do nossing. I do not need to be told how easy it is—I have experience in zoze sings—I know how easy it will be, even in your boasted New York and your America!—because I know ze people I have to deal wis."

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Relieves the Ailments of Change of Life.

"During Change of Life I had hot flashes, dizzy spells and every month I was wild with misery I had a constant dull pain, and would always feel tired. I suffered in this way for five or six years and was treated by a physician and took different remedies without benefit. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me and I took it, and I believe I would never have been well if it had not been for the Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I am recommending your medicine to all women ailing as I was, for I think it will carry them safely through the Change of Life, and relieve the ailments that come at that period."—Mrs. ALEXIE C. NANGLE, Galatia, Ill.

Women who suffer from nervousness, "heat flashes," backache, headaches, and "the blues," should try this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and if complications exist write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of their 40 years' experience in such cases is at your service.

For After Effects of the "FLU" and Other Weakening Diseases

If you are weak, dizzy, tired and nervous from the "after effects" of enervating diseases, the tonic, strength renewing REOLO Treatment will restore your strength—revitalize the exhausted blood, eliminate the toxic poisons—tone up the heart and nervous system and give renewed vigor, vitality, strength and energy.

Pain, headache, backache, nervousness, dizziness, anaemia, dyspepsia, billiousness, congestion, constipation, etc., are but Nature's warning signals that the blood is full of deadly germs or that the cells of some part of your body are starving for their natural food—just as a plant droops and dies for lack of water.

Any tissue of the body deprived of oxygen dies at once. The life of each individual cell is brief and without oxygen no new cells can be built; neither can they without the necessary cell salts.

The cells are not fed. They feed themselves but do not feed blindly upon every substance that comes their way. They know how to choose the particles they wish to absorb. Nothing foreign to their constituent parts can be forced upon them except to produce injury or death.

REOLO

Restores Vigor and Vitality

eliminates the toxic poisons, rapidly increases the red blood cells—revitalizes the blood with life-giving oxygen—and restores strength and energy. It tones up the heart action and nervous system—stimulates the digestion, and assimilation—renews the exhausted cells. REOLO makes the weakness and dizziness that are so frequently the after effects of the "Flu" and other enervating diseases disappear as shadows vanish before the sunshine.

Oxygen is the life-giver—necessary to maintain life. REOLO absorbs the oygen from the air in the lungs and carries it into the blood—rapidly oxidizing or revitalizing the red blood cells—and increasing the amount of hemoglobin in the blood, sending through the entire body a stream of rich, vitalized, health-giving blood that nourishes every cell, of the nerves, tissues, brain and bones.

By special arrangement with the Dr. A. L. Reusing Laboratories, Akron, Ohio, we have been appointed Licensees for the distribution of "REOLO" direct from the Laboratories, each package certified by Dr. A. L. Reusing and positively guaranteed to give satisfactory results or we will gladly refund your money. Large box of "REOLO", (100 tablets) price $1.00

Answers by Carolina Jewett

Dear Mis Jewett: If this is in your line, please tell me in what years Andrew Jackson was president of the United States, and much obliged.

Andrew Jackson was president of the United States from 1829 to 1837. You're welcome.

—o—

Dear Miss Jewett: About six years ago I had an Indian head tatooed on my right arm. Is there any way of having it removed?

I understand that tatoo marks can now be removed by an electric process.

—o—

Dear Miss Jewett: Is it all right for a boy to put his arm around a girl's neck, if they really love each other and are engaged to be married? And is it all right and proper for him to kiss her goodnight when he calls on her? How often should they write to each other? How old should they be to marry? How much should a young man weigh who is five feet eight inches tall?

Certainly it is all right if they are engaged. Once or twice a week. The girl should be at least 18 and the young man 21. He should weigh about 140 pounds.

—o—

Dear Miss Jewett: I am in love with a boy of 18. I am 19. How can I win his like?

There is nothing you can do except to be as nice and attractive to him as possible. Do not pursue him, for if there is anything a man hates, its that, he wants to do the pursuing himself.

—o—

Dear Miss Jewett: Enclosed find samples. Please tell me if the brown would be more suitable for a coat than a dress. What would be suitable to trim the brown with and what to trim the black with and how to make it for a settled woman?

The brown would be most suitable for a coat suit. It would be lovely trimmed with brown velvet or just brown buttons. The black would be nice made in one piece, buttoned on the side, with round neck. Trim dress with either self covered or perhaps you can find a little novelty button you like. Have long sleeves and wear dainty white collar and cuffs. Lots of brown will be worn this winter, also dull shades of green, gray, taupe, maroon, dark blue and black.

Modernizing the Furniture

The daughter of the family is often the first to discover that the furnishings of the home have suddenly fallen quite behind the times, and that certain fresh touches are needed to give them a modern air. After a round of visits to the homes and studios of her various friends, she realizes that the children are decidedly apparent, while the style of decorations and furniture seems sadly old-fashioned. At exactly this point in her discovery, anyone who happened to enter the living room might find her standing in the doorway, head tilted on one side, eyes half shut, regarding the apartment with what may be termed a constructively critical survey. After a succession of such moments and a series of visits to shops where really beautiful things are sold, and to homes which have been successfully furnished, it is safe to say that certain revolutionary measures, in the nature of interior decoration, will be taking shape.

If it be the consensus of opinion that the furniture is too good to be disposed of, the ambitious member may rejoice in the fact that alterations in the matter of color and outline are still open to her. Hand-painted furniture is so much in vogue nowadays that the plans for the home's furnishings will probably include at least one room done in this style.

Much has been said about hand-painted bedroom sets, but their attractiveness is so marked that the subject is constantly broadening. Because one has never felt expert in designing, she need not consider herself incompetent to decorate her furniture, provided she is sure that she has plenty of patience to keep on with her work until it is well done. The design may be a small part of the work, is desired, for one need not make original patterns, with such attractive stenciled varieties available.

When one has an assortment of odd pieces of furniture, which, for utility's sake, the home-maker has to put in the same room, the most obvious means of harmonizing the array is by painting them all a new color, to match their surroundings. Or, when one has discovered that the lines of a certain piece can be improved considerably by the removal of certain ornate embellishments, a little sawing, followed by several coats of paint, will effect surprising results. When the home decorator considers her furniture carefully, she will often find that there are many possibilities which have never occurred to her before. Aside from the fact that painted furniture is effective in almost any home, it is practical from several viewpoints, for, besides making odd pieces match, it can be kept fresh quite easily.

One girl's bureau was designed on rather ugly, top-heavy lines, because it had a wide border of wood over the mirror, which was attached to the side supports. In addition to this it had a narrow shelf, fastened directly under the mirror, which was clumsy-looking and greatly in the way, when using the bureau. She finally realized that, by turning the dresser on its side and sawing across the two narrow side supports, which were only about two inches thick, she would remove the top border automatically. By cutting at a point about six inches from the top of the supports, a better line was carried out than would have resulted had she cut flush with the mirror. From the back of the bureau, she removed the screws which held the shelf in place, with the result that the piece was completely transformed into a neat, Colonial style of dresser, a real addition to the room. The next step was to change the light oak finish into the white that she had long wanted, and she set about her task with determination to do it thoroughly.

Knowing that it would be necessary to remove every trace of varnish before attempting to apply her paint, and since she had no commercial paint-remover available, she scrubbed the bureau with very hot water, to which a generous amount of household ammonia had been added, using a stiff scouring brush for the purpose. As the water became chilled, she replenished it with a fresh supply, since hot water is far more effective than warm for removing varnish. She worked in the kitchen on linoleum, with plenty of dry clother ready to catch the surplus water; but if one can work out of doors, of course it is much easier, besides being a better medium for drying the furniture after the bath. When the piece was quite dry, she applied the first coat of paint with a medium-sized brush, working rapidly and evenly over the entire surface. As it is important to keep the paint fairly thin, in order to insure a smooth surface, a supply of turpentine for this purpose was kept available during the process. When the first coat was applied the furniture was protected from dust until the surface had thoroughly dried. (A day is usually enough for had drying.) A second, and then a third, coat followed at intervals, until the work was perfectly satisfactory. Greatly encouraged at the result of her attempt, she painted the other articles of furniture which were part of her bedroom's furnishings. When this work was complete, she worked out a simple, effective flower design for the center of the second drawer and a smaller variation of it for the back of the rocking chair, table top and desk: then she cut the pattern, in a piece of waxed cardboard, to be used as a stencil. The colors used in the design were selected to match the draperies and rug, the predominating note of these accessories being emphasized throughout. The application of the pattern was the most fascinating part of the work and required considerably less time than the preparation of the furniture.

One exceptionally pretty bedroom set was painted a soft ivory tone, and was decorated with quaint, old-fashioned baskets, brimming over with bright flowers, which were placed in the middle of the bureau front and on the head and foot of each of the two beds which were part of the set. A one-quarter inch band of glossy black was used to outline the furniture, and the wooden knobs which served as handles on the drawers were finished each with a tiny disk of black to match. The touch of jet on the ivory is singularly ornamental, besides making it very trim. The young woman who decorated her set in this fashion painted the floor a brilliant black, by using the paint with which automobiles are ordinarily finished. The contrasts of the ivory furniture, against the black floor, gave the room just the smart appearance which she was trying to obtain. The curtains were of a soft cream, the draperies, which were flowered, were prominently rose-hued to match the flowered baskets: and, as the roof faced the north and was therefore a trifle cold, an adjustable shade of rose chintz was selected to replace the regular white one.

French gray is also much in vogue for painted furniture, and pretty effects may be obtained by working designs of old blue with a border of the same to outline it. Rose is always attractive in combination with gray, if selected in a shade which is not too strong. A well-known shop in New York City shows hand-painted furniture in lavender, mauve and shades of blue and green, in addition to the regular styles of white, ivory and gray.

One lovely dining room set was painted in apple green, with a one-inch border of white, with baskets of tiny flowers placed upon the white border at the corners and in the center of the larger pieces. A Welsh dresser, or open sideboard, on which the china or simple pieces of old silver are displayed, is a charmingly simple addition to the dining room. Odd Windsor and old-fashioned caned or rush-bottomed chairs are the most appropriate to use with the Welsh dresser.

ART NEEDLEWORK by Edith M. Owen

CHILD'S KNITTED CAPE

This attractive cape for the little miss is very simple to make. The body of the cape can be in the plain garter stitch and the collar in knit 1 and purl 1 though the directions is the smock stitch for the body and the fancy lace stitch for the collar.

Back—Cast on 100 stitches.

1st row—Knit 2, * yarn over needle, slip 1, repeat from * to end of row.

2nd row—Knit all stitches but those passed over the needle in the previous row, which are slipped. Knit the stitch which was under it, then slip the stitch which was passed over the needle.

3rd row—Knit 1, * yarn over slip 1, knit the next stitch and the slipped stitch together. Repeat from * to end of row. Knit 1.

4th row—Same as 2nd row.

5th row—Knit 1, * knit the next stitch and the slipped stitch together, yarn over, slip 1. Repeat from * ending row with knit 1. Repeat 2nd and 5th rows inclusive until the back is the desired length and bind off.

Fronts—Cast on 80 stitches and knit in the same manner and length as back and bind off. Sew the fronts and back together leaving an eight inch opening for the bands.

Collar—Cast on 45 stitches.

1st row—Knit.

2nd row—Purl 3, * knit 4, purl 3. Repeat from * to end of row.

3rd row—Yarn over knit 3 together 1 yarn over, * knit 4 yarn over, knit 3 together yarn over. Repeat from * to end of row ending row yarn over.

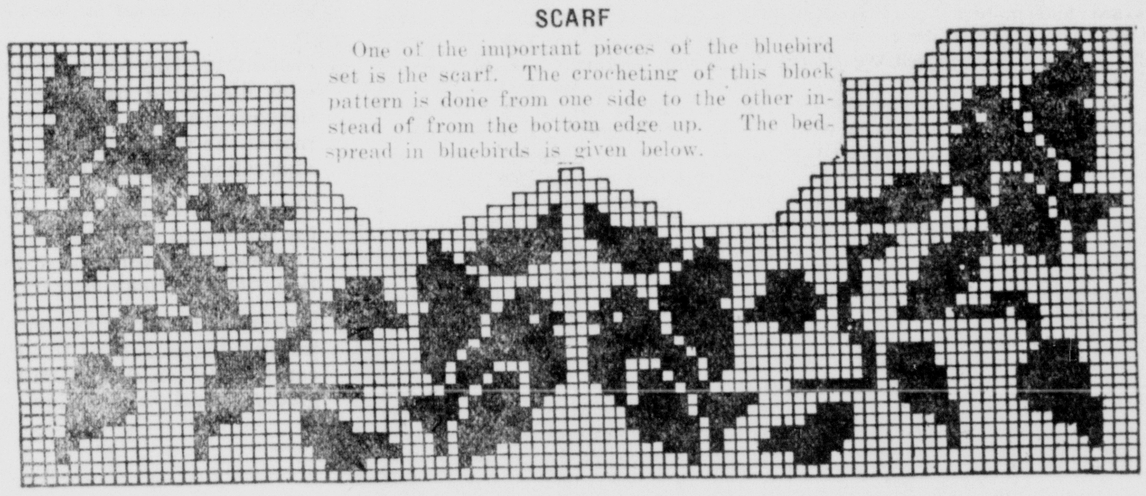

4th row—Purl 3, * knit, purl 3. Repeat from * to end of row.

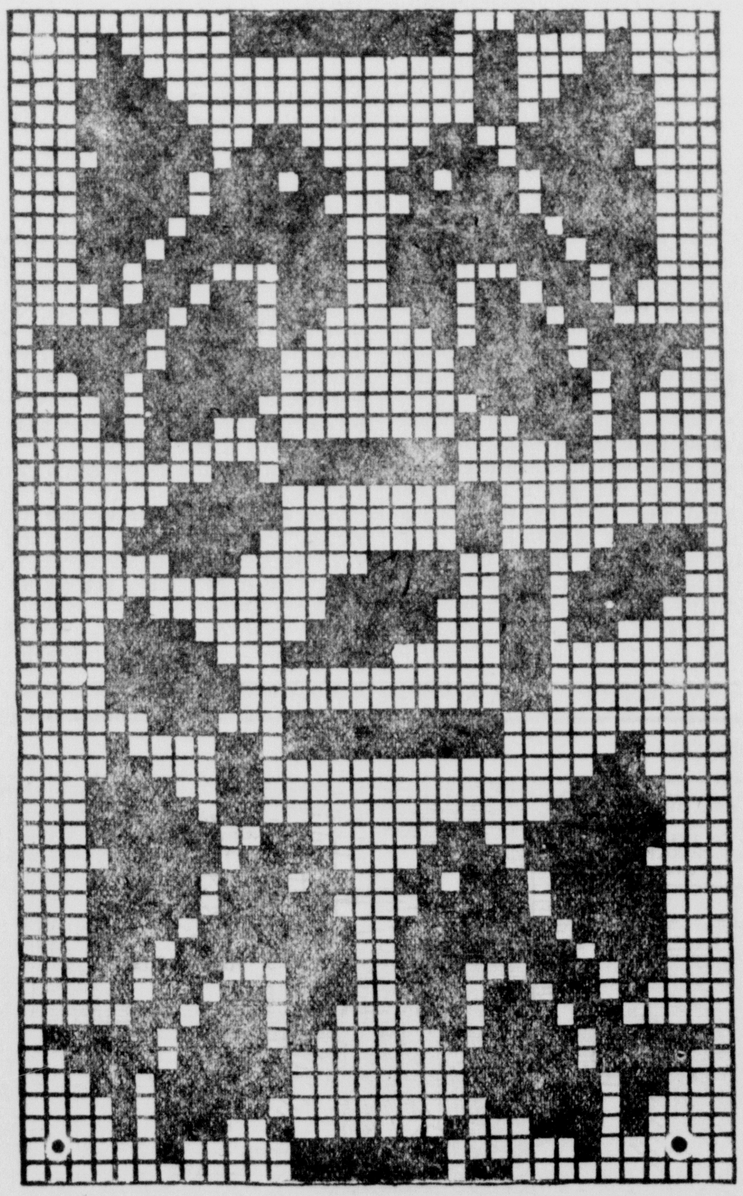

Repeat from 1st to 4th rows inclusive until collar is long enough to go around the neck, cross in front and fasten in back with snaps. To sew the cape to the collar, place center of one edge to collar and center of cape together, measuring on the child where it is right for the front edges to come. Gather the fulness in to one edge of the collar having both sides of equal length. Fold the loose edge of collar on to the outside of cape.

This cape can be increased or decreased for any size child by having an even number of stitches for the body and a number of stitches divisible by 7, add 3 for the collar.

SCARF

One of the important pieces of the bluebird set is the scarf. The crocheting of this block pattern is done from one side to the other instead of from the bottom edge up. The bedspread in bluebirds is given below.

BEDSPREAD

The bluebird bedspread insertion is very beautiful when used with strips of linen though the spread can be made entirely of insertion. The edging to be used around the outer edge is that given in one of the past issues finishing it with a single crochet and picot edge.

Training Little Children

Obedience.

The question of obedience to the laws of the home, and to the community, confronts each individual. Some pass it lightly by, giving it little thought, and less observance, but not so the thoughtful parent or teacher to whom the care of children is entrusted.

Obedience should underly the life of each of us; it is essential to happiness. Only as we learn to listen and obey are we fitted to take our rightful place in society. We must obey the laws of nature if we would be healthy, the laws of home and community if we would be worthy members of each group, and above all, there must be obedience to the moral law.

Since obedience is such an important factor in each life, how can we best teach it to the child without destroying his individuality?

Many mothers admit their inability to obtain obedience, and teachers are often asked, "How do you make him obey, he does not mind me at all?" A dreadfufl confession, but since it is made, let us try to help these mothers.

First let us ask a few questions:

1—Do you govern your child by love or by fear?

2—Are you honest with him?

3—Are your demands reasonable and do you explain why you make certain requirements?

4—Do you talk indiscreetly before your child and admit your inability to control him?

5—Do you require prompt obedience or do you tolerate disobedience and belated performance of duty?

These questions are all involved in obedience.

In dealing with children we should give the reasons for our conduct, if possible. Of course there are some things which cannot be explained and we should frankly admit it; there are others which we cannot explain to young children and we should promise to do so when they are older.

A spiritual question arose one day in a Sunday School class which was rather complex to explain to little children. The teacher left the problem and asked these questions.

"How did God make the great oak tree come out of a tiny acorn? Do you see how He did it? Did He really do it?"

There was no doubt about the latter, for the children had often pulled up the tiny oaks and found the acorn from which the root and tree had sprouted.

"Well," said the teacher, "there are some things we know are true, but we can't explain them, can we?"

A few Sundays later another problem arose in one of the hymns. The teacher made the best explanation possible, then added, "Some things are hard to explain, aren't they?"

Smilingly one little girl looked up and remarked, "Just like the acorn and the tree; we can't tell how God did it, but we know it is true."

In this way questioning obedience will, if properly and lovingly dealt with, become confident, trustful obedience.

Obedience is subjection to rightful control at all times and in all places.

Yet many parents are satisfied with only occasional obedience. One day a mother expects immediate response to her request, while a little later she waits indefinitely for obedience. At still another time if, she is busy at some household duty or neighborly conversation, she entirely forgets her request. What happens? The child under such conditions proceeds to decide matters for himself, and his motto becomes, "With mother, obey when it is convenient." Such a child soon demoralizes the children of the whole neighborhood.

Last but perhaps of greatest concern to parents is the advice to settle with disobedience at the time; tally today's books today, unless some act requires a future opportunity for correction. Just here let us add one more word on this important subject. Study your child and his disposition; suit your corrections to him, and to the particular act in question. A certain punishment may suit one child and work ruin in the life of another.

This Will Be Our New Serial

It is a melodramatic romance of the Black Hawk War and the Mississippi river when the Western frontier was sparsely garrisoned and high-stake gambling one of the steamboat pastimes of the day. It is an old-fashioned story, possessed of a direct plot, stirring adventures and well written. Our readers will enjoy it.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

WITNESSES OF CHRIST'S GLORY

Luke 9:28-36

GOLDEN TEXT—This is my beloved Son; hear ye him.—Mark 9:7.

ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Matt. 17:1-8; Mark 9:2-8; II Peter 1:16-18.

PRIMARY AND JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter and John with Jesus on the mountain.

SENIOR AND ADULT TOPIC—The glory of Jesus Christ.

While it is true that in this lesson the disciples are witnesses of Christ's glory, the full truth is that the manifestation of Christ in glory was to give to the discouraged disciples a foregleam of the Messianic Kingdom. The hopes of the disciples were crushed when Christ announced his death on the cross. They were unable to see how victory could issue from death.

Jesus took with him Peter, James, and John, and went into the mountain to pray. His chief aim in retirement was to get the disciples apart into a state of receptivity so that he might show them the method of the Kingdom. Before going to the mountain he declared that there were some standing in his presence who would not taste of death till they should see the Son of Man coming in his Kingdom (Luke 9:27; Matt. 16:28). That their drooping spirits might be revived and their confidence restored, he is transfigured before them. Two men from the upper world are sent to converse with him about his approaching death in Jerusalem (v. 31)—the very thing about which the disciples refused to talk. Then too, God's own voice was heard in words of approval of Christ's course, directing them to hear the Master. Surely they cannot doubt his ability now to carry into execution his kingdom plans. The purpose, then, of the transfiguration is to give the disciples a foregleam of the coming Kingdom, to enable them to see the Kingdom in embryo. That this is true is not only shown by the context and circumstances, but by the inspired interpretation of one who was with him and knew all that happened. Peter said, "For we did not follow cunningly devised fables when we made known unto you the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, but we were eye witnesses of his majesty, for he received of God the Father, honor and glory when there came such a voice to him from the excellent glory. This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased: and this voice we ourselves heard come out of heaven, when we were with him in the holy mount. And we have the word of prophecy made more sure; whereunto ye do well that ye take heed, as unto a lamp shining in a dark place, until the day dawn, and the day-star arise in your hearts (2 Peter 1:16-19 R. V.). To those who believe in the inspiration of the Bible these words are final. Let us therefore note the outstanding features of the Kingdom as displayed in the transfiguration.

I. Jesus Christ the Glorified King on Mount Zion (v. 29).

The glorified King on this Mount was intended to symbolize the Messianic Kingdom when Christ returns to the Mount of Olives in Jerusalem (Zech. 14:4-17). This is still in the future, and will be literally fulfilled.

II. The Glorified Saints With Christ (vv. 30, 31).

1. Moses, who was once denied an entrance into Palestine, appears now in glory, representing the redeemed of the Lord who will pass through death into the Kingdom. Many thousands of the redeemed have fallen asleep and at the coming of the Lord shall be awakened to pass into the Kingdom.

2. Elijah, now glorified, represents the redeemed who shall pass into the Kingdom through translation. Many shall be living upon the earth when the Lord shall come, and shall without dying be changed and thus pass into the Kingdom (1 Cor. 15:50-53; 1 Thess. 4:-14-18).

3. They talk of the very thing which the disciples refused to believe, namely, the death of Christ.

III. Israel, in the Flesh, in Connection With the Kingdom, Represented by Peter, James and John (v. 28).

Israel shall be called from their hiding place among all nations of the earth and shall be gathered to Jesus Christ the King, as the central people in the Kingdom (Ez. 37:21-27).

1. Peter proposes to build three tabernacles (v. 33). The Feast of Tabernacles looked forward to the glorious reign of Christ. Peter caught a glimpse of the significance of the transfiguration. His proposition showed that he thought of the Feast of Tabernacles, and therefore of the Millenium.

2. The divine voice (v. 35). At this time God himself uttered his words, assuring them that this one in glory was his son Jesus Christ.

IV. The Multitude at the Foot of the Mountain (vv. 37-43).

This is representative of the nations which shall be brought into the Kingdom which shall be established over Israel (see Isaiah 11:10-12). The people here were grievously oppressed by the devil. There are times when the devil is especially active in his oppression of men. About the time of Christ's first coming he did his best to harass men. Just before Christ's coming again he will be especially active, for he knows that his time is short.

son. He denied that it was used for hauling tools inside.

One of the alleged confidence men insisted upon $30 of his money being given him and each of the other men asked for $10 apiece. This money was wanted, it is believed by officials to aid their escape. The confidence men were in another part of the jail and it would have been necessary for one of the men on the lower floor to have secured the keys and liberated the other men.

Authorities at Bedford have been requested to hold Davich who is said to be wanted in Chicago for operating a "con" game. It is believed by the Lawrence county officials that the three men are members of a large gang that has been working among foreigners in this country.

The men held in the county jail have been about Bedford for about a week and have been lavish with their money. Papers found on them indicate they had considerable money on deposit in banks in different cities. Millich claims to be a Servian and says that he was a longshoreman in New York for seven years and served in the Servian Army for nine years. Davich also claims to be a Servian and Rukavince says he is an Austrian. Photographs have been taken of the men to be sent to the police at Chicago, Indiana Harbor and New York, where they claim to have resided.

FIRST BAPTIST REVIVAL.

The tense axiety of the audience present last night on account the accident which happened to the pastor's little boy, was clearly seen and felt but the interest in the meeting for the salvation of souls was well sustained. Miss Anna Carter led the singing and early in the program introduced Mrs. Frank Voss who rendered a beautiful solo much to the delight of the large audience. A duet was also rendered by two ladies of the church.

Evangelist Hayworth announced the work for the remaining days of the campaign which include the service tonight and an all day service Sunday beginning with the Sunday School. A special meeting for men and boys will be held in the afternoon Sunday 3:15. The various missions will thus have time to get through with the afternoon Sunday School work and get back to the church for the men's meeting.

Tonight Evangelist Hayworth will preach on the subject, "The Ins and The Outs of Life or a special to Base Ball Fans."

Last night he spoke earnestly on the subject, "The Unpardonable Sin of Unbelief."

Among other things he said:

Unbelief is stubborn rebellion against surrendering to the will of God and refusing to accept the light of revelation.

The prophetic evidence in Scripture that Jesus was the Christ is disregarded by the unbeliever.

The testimony of the saints of God is set at naught and God himself is denied by the moral obduracy of unbelief.

Unbelief is the father of all other sins because by faith the soul is born again and when thus born again is made to abound in love for God and man. No man who loves his neighbor as himself will be guilty of murder or theft.

Unbelief strikes hard at every suggestion for the progress of the race. The cynical spirit which says to the inventor 'it is impossible' would have held back every invention which has been a blessing to the advance of modern civilization.

Unbelief which reaches its finality then becomes unpardonable on account of the final permanence of character reached by its victim. He who says "no" the last time to the call of God according to the Bible will never be saved for Christ said: "If ye believe not that I am the Christ ye shall die in your sins and where I am ye can never come."

Saving faith effectuates a change in spirit and conduct and abides. You can not have a saving faith today and be lost tomorrow. "Now abideth faith hope and charity."

Obedience to the best light one has will soon result in a confession of faith in Jesus Christ.

Saving faith and church membership must go together for one can not live secretly the Christian life. The honest doubter will be tenderly loved by the Saviour and if obedient to the best light he has will not long remain in doubt. The first man who ever took a drink of water did so because he was obedient to an instinctive impulse which suggested that he should thus drink. Then he knew by experience that water quenches thrist. Sinners must be willing to act on the spiritual instinct planted within them which says, it is better to be true than to be a liar—better to be pure than impure—better to be virtuous than lustful. Acting on this instinctive feeling and accepting the testimony of trusted saints that Jesus is able to save, will result in that personal spiritual experience of religion which will be a satisfying portion.

If you are not willing to give up your known sins there is no use making a profession of religion for the vital benefits in a religious profession will be denied you and your profession will be a mockery.

Too many professed Christians hold back many things which should be given up in that act of total self surrender required by the terms of the gospel.

If you expect to get all you must give all. God will have all your life or none. There is no such thing as a fractional part being given to God and the rest held in reserve for personal privileges.

The unpardonable sin then is that final act which refuses for time and eternity to surrender to the will of God.

SHIELDS SUGGESTS NEW FINANCE PLAN

seeking a change of place or an assistant who has sufficient training to take up the position of secretary.

"We ought to have offices centrally located and easily accessible which would be open every day. The organization ought to undertake many lines of work that would be of benefit to the community, now impossible because of the lack of funds, trained leadership and lack of time on the part of the present leaders.

"The idea of employing a full time secretary is noe disparaging the efforts of our present or past secretaries, who receive only nominal salaries, and who are not able to and not expected to give more than a very small amount of time and attention in return for the small pay. If the present salary is all we can afford to pay we would do well to keep up the present plan of employing a home man to give a small portion of his time to the work. Other cities no larger than Seymour raise from $7,500 to $10,000 annually. Some of the larger cities spend over $100,000 a year in chamber of commerce activities and consider it well invested."

Mr. Shield's letter to the directors follows:

"I am convinced that it will be necessary for the Chamber of Commerce to be adequately financed and for us to have an experienced man trained in commercial organization work to give his whole time to directing its affairs in order to make it such an asset as it should be to the community. The organization is now trying to do a large job in a very small way. I believe $4,000 a year is the minimum amount that can be made to bring worth while returns if so invested.

"We should employ a competent man, open suitable headquarters, provide for necessary clerical help, and have sufficient funds in addition to care for such general expenses as will arise out of the carrying on of anything like the work that ought to be done. A budget should be carefully worked out and a plan adopted to meet it.

"Various plans have been successful in different places. Some cities solicit direct contributions; some put the membership fee at a high figure: Columbus fixes a rather low membership fee and sells a number of membership shares each to the larger concerns. In a small city it would seem that a plan in which the small contributors as well as the larger ones might participate, each according to his ability, would be more satisfactory. We might raise $4,000 a year on a three-year or a five-year basis, as follows:

5 contributors of $200 each, $1000.00.

10 contributors of $100 each, $1000.00.

10 contributors of $50 each, $500.00.

20 contributors of $25 each, $500.00

50 contributors of $10 each, $500.00.

85 contributors of $6 each, $510.00.

180 contributors total $4010.00.

"The amount, indeed, the entire plan as outlined, is merely suggestive. Will you give the whole matter you best thought, perhaps working out some original ideas to submit, so we may take up the proposition and discuss it intelligently at a meeting of the Board of Directors some evening next week?

CARS OFF TRACK AT SHIELDSTOWN

the division office in this city the train broke apart causing the cars to run together with such force as to cause their derailment. The train was a doubleheader with W. E. Bulger, conductor, and Engineers J. N. Williams and Walter O'Donnel in charge. The cars breaking apart caused the air breaks to work which slacked the speed of the train and the cut of wrecked cars which was running wild collided with the rest of the train with such force as to knock them off of the track.

The train was composed of eighty-five cars and left this city at 1 o'clock this afternoon west-bound. Baltimore & Ohio fast train No. 2 due to arrive in this city at 4:55 was detoured via Mitchell and New Albany. Other trains will be held up until the wreck is cleared away. The members of the train crew all escaped injury.
